I spent a full academic year at Sabancı and I had an amazing experience! Istanbul is a fantastic place to study. There is so much history and culture to explore and there is always something going on in the city. If you’re interested in politics, Turkey is also the place to be as there are interesting developments taking place all the time. At Sabancı I really enjoyed the classes I took and not only did I broaden my academic knowledge and skills, I also learnt a great deal about other people and cultures by mixing with a big variety of international students. Overall, I would highly recommend an Erasmus placement in Istanbul!

Studying at Sabanci was a wonderful, unique experience. Students and faculty were welcoming and excited to learn with and from exchange students. My only regret is that my time at Sabanci did not last longer. This exchange went beyond an enriching experience: I have created a Turkish family, made up of friends from across the world. I fell in love with Istanbul and look forward to returning.

SU Nanotechnology Research and Application Center (SUNUM) is becoming a key hub and leading example of ‘open innovation’ and ‘innovation campus’ in Turkey, establishing precompetitive research consortia and strategic alliances with academic and industrial partners. SUNUM manages the translational research for the establishment of “start-up” and “spin-off” companies and the protection of intellectual property rights by patents.

We have recently established our Composite Technologies Center of Excellence as the product of an innovative university-industry partnership model which will bring together the university and industry under one roof at the same time.
